

Pier Luigi Lopalco is a medical doctor, trained in Epidemiology and Public Health, Full Professor of Hygiene and Preventive Medicine at the University of Pisa, Italy. Between 2005 and 2015 he has been working at the European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control (ECDC) where has been Head of Vaccine Preventable Disease Programme and Head of Section Scientific Assessment. His research and public health activity is testified by more than 120 publications in books and peer-reviewed scientific journals.