

Prof David J. M. Lewis was trained in medicine in Cardiff Wales, then MSc in Medical Microbiology at London School Of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine, and MD for vaccine and mucosal immunology research with HIV infected subjects in London and Kenya. Recent research focuses on development of vaccines, mucosal immunology and translational clinical research. Has conducted clinical trials using oral live GM bacterial vaccines, and nasal, oral and vaginal vaccines against HIV, TB, enteric and other infections. Co-ordinator of Innovative Medicines Initiative project “BIOVACSAFE: biomarkers of vaccine immunosafety”.